

TRAUMA THERAPY 2019/20 PEAK STATES® THERAPY

Institute for the Study of Peak States (ISPS) Trauma and Peak States® Therapist

ISPS Therapy - an entirely new way of understanding healing and consciousness - based on Subcellular Psychobiology and the Primary Cell Model by Dr. Grant McFetridge. He outlines his theory in his latest books "Peak States® of Consciousness" Vol 2 and "Subcellular Psychobiology". Synthesising information from the diverse fields of cellular biology, psychology, spiritual practice and shamanism, these books explain how the human psyche operates. They identify how trauma, physical damage during pre-natal and pre-conception events, impacts our consciousness and health and how the healing of key-biological events allows one to acquire peak states of consciousness.

Our trainings are more than learning a few skills. Your perception of healing will change, and you need to be somewhat adventurous to integrate this new paradigm. You can expect to do a lot of personal healing because other modalities have not covered the developmental phase of the physical body in this way, as well as practicing as the therapist on students and clients.

Our trainings are ideal for therapists who want to be able to help more of their clients. ISPS Trauma and Peak State® Therapy is a cutting edge approach. You will be part of the pioneering phase of something very new and exciting, and help facilitate a giant leap in how we understand healing.

Who can do the trainings?

The trainings are primarily intended for therapists and professionals in the healing fields or for those who want to become a therapist as their main profession. Each module contains valuable information and techniques, that may be used on their own or enhance other modalities. The modules build on each other and can be taken individually over time or as a full training package.

You need to have basic therapist skills and experience working with clients before enrolling in the training.

Pre-requisites and certification

Before commencement of the training, you need to have:

- Read the text books “Peak States® of Consciousness” Vol 1 and Vol 2, and the Basic Whole-Hearted Healing Manual, to get a grasp of what this new work is about. You also need to familiarise yourself with the new diagnostic manual “Subcellular Psychobiology”, which will be the new diagnostic teaching tool.
- You need to do three general therapy sessions with one of the certified therapists.
- We require that you have no major health issues like heart conditions or mental illness Including suicidal tendencies.
- We ask you to have a ‘Scan’ done with one of our staff therapists. This will help determine if there are any unusual problems that should be treated before commencement of the training.

The ISPS Trauma Therapist training enables you to effectively guide your clients to heal trauma and apply triune brain therapy. On completion of the ISPS Peak States® Therapist Training you will guide your clients through Peak States® processes. ISPS certifies therapists and for safety reasons some of the techniques you learn may only be used under license.
